

Men, You Have What it Takes

Men were created bigger and stronger so that they can fulfill their tasks as the provider, the protector and the leader of the family.

Man is not to be a dictator or a slave master; he was ordained by God to be loving, caring, peaceful, and to provide guidance and protection for his family. The family is the main unit of society. The main unit is what makes or breaks society. Therefore, a family should be carefully and divinely guided.

There are men who have taken their God-given leadership too far, through verbal, sexual and physical abuse. This has caused a great deal of pain and suffering for many women and their children. In order to survive, women fight back the best way they think is good, by trying to be as strong as men or domineering, so that they would not be taken advantage of.

Since women are genetically the weaker gender, physically, it caused a great struggle for both men and women, worst, their children. Many women have lost their feminine charms, and sometimes men are confused as to how to handle them.

God in His word gave man the guardianship of his family, but this does not make him a slave master. He is to guide the family with strength, love, care, patience and kindness. Yes, there are times when a man has to put his foot down but he must do so with love and understanding, and without anger and fear. He must turn to God who gave him this leadership role in the first place and ask for his directions.

You are a Leader

Prepare yourself

A man should prepare himself to lead his home in a priestly and Godly manner. This leadership in his home is the most important task given to him by God. Even if he is a business owner or a minister of a church, his family comes first.

Instead of pursuing females to have sex, a man should use that energy to prepare himself for a family. This includes college education, psychiatric counseling, relationship advice, spiritual guidance, financial education, and health information. Once, married, he and his wife are responsible for rearing happy, obedient, and intelligent children. Each intelligent child belongs to God and each was lent to them by God to teach, guide and protect. Depending on how these intelligent beings, (his children), are raised, makes a drastic difference in the world. Don't believe me? Adolf Hitler had parents. Jesus Christ had parents. Every drug addict had parents. Every priest, minister, police officer, abuser, rapist, alcoholic, prostitute, teacher, nurse, president, world leader and I could go on - all had parents. It takes a man and a woman to make another human; not only a woman. Therefore, a man should be careful where he leaves his seed. If he does drop it and it germinates, he needs to be there for this precious production.

He needs to lead, teach, guide and protect the new life that was produced by him and her. This new, precious production is a part of him. His new child should be cared for, taught, protected from abuse, fed and clothed.

It is sad that the court forces a parent to take care of someone who is a part of his very being. In the end, he will have to give an account to God for not being responsible.

You are a Leader

Men have a great responsibility as men, fathers, husbands, brothers and to be protectors of their family. Many men have no idea the enormous impact they have on their family. If they sat down and thought about it, they would shudder and make more intelligent decisions about how many women they conquer and leave with babies.

If more men would take time out, be responsible and spend quality time with and train their sons, many of the mishaps and crimes that take place would be literally nonexistent.

Men must realize that they cannot go through this world without God. God should come first in everything they do. If He cannot be a part of it, they have no business doing it. Hello! Sooner or later it's going to come back and bite them in the butt.

Preparation should include a good education. Finish high school. If you didn't get a chance to graduate from high school, get your GED. Go to college or a trade school. Learn something worthwhile. Use your God-given talent to make a living to support you and your family. Get a job! Own your own business. You have the ability to do this. Do not let anyone tell you that you cannot do this. Move with speed and confidence.

The greatest inventions done in the world were done by men and women just like you. Hello! If you fail, try again, and again. Never give up! Trust God and lean on Him for wisdom and guidance. You are an awesome man and you were built to soar like an eagle. So, ascend on high and move forward.
